RUMMANS'S RECORD

DEFIES THE LAW!

Some More Facts About the Artful One Who Senator Would Be.

The individual who knowingly violates the law is not a proper person to represent the people in a law-making capacity.

The Statutes of Kentucky prescribe a penalty for any life insurance company or life insurance agent who gives a "rebate" to any applicant for a policy; and if such rebate is given, both the company and its agent are amenable to the law, the maximum penalty in each case being a due of $500.

Some time ago Mr. J. D. Rummans and a gentleman named Cray,—who lives in an adjoining county and who is a rival of the former in the business,—were soliciting a gentleman of this county for a policy.

Cray got the inside track—and the policy—by giving the gentleman a small rebate on the first premium.

Rummans found this out; and forthwith he went to Frankfort, laid the facts before the proper state official and had Mr. Cray indicted.

This shows, most conclusively you must admit, that Rummans was not ignorant of the law.

What shall be said, then, of the man who, knowing the law, openly violates it?

You have seen that Mr. Rummans knew what the law was.

Did he violate it?

We will let the official records answer.

And please bear in mind the fact that the transaction between Mr. Rummans and Dr. W. S. Yazell took place after Rummans had secured the indictment of Mr. Cray.

There are now on file in the Circuit Clerk's office in this city two petitions, one against the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States and one against J. D. Rummans, its agent in this city; but for the purpose in view it is only necessary to print that against Mr. Rummans, which is as follows:

MASON CIRCUIT COURT.
Commonwealth of Kentucky, Plaintiff, vs. J. D. Rummans, Defendant.

Plaintiff, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, for cause of action against the defendant, J. D. Rummans, says that said defendant was at the time of the happening of the things hereinabove set out and ever since has been and still is the local agent at Maysville of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, duly appointed by it, and authorized and empowered by it to solicit persons to take out policies of life insurance in said Society and to make contracts thereto and to deliver policies. Said Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States is a corporation having its home office in the city and state of New York, organized for the purpose of and engaged in the business of life insurance, and was so engaged in the state of Kentucky and in the county of Mason and city of Maysville at the time of the happening of the matters hereinabove set out, and is still so engaged. It being duly authorized during all said time to do business as such life insurance company in this state under and pursuant to the laws thereof. Prior to the happening of the matters hereinabove set out it had duly appointed defendant as its local agent at Maysville, Ky., and he has ever since continued in this employ as its agent.

Plaintiff states that on the day of February, 1894, in Maysville, Ky., defendant, as agent as aforesaid, contracted with Dr. W. S. Yazell to insure his life for $5,000 in consideration of the payment by him of an annual premium of $146, and to cause a policy to that effect to be issued to him and co-concerned. In order to induce said Yazell to take out a said policy defendant agreed with him prior to the issuance thereof, that when he paid the first annual premium of $146 he, defendant, would pay back to him, as a rebate, the sum of $16; said Yazell did thereupon take out said policy and paid to defendant, as such agent, the first annual premium of $146, and defendant thereupon immediately gave him back said sum of $16, as he had agreed to do. This agreement of defendant to pay back to said Yazell said rebate was not expressed in said policy which was issued and delivered to him.

Said agreement of defendant to allow to said Yazell said rebate, and the payment of same to him as above set out, was and is contrary to the statute for such cases provided, and renders defendant liable to plaintiff in a penal sum of not exceeding $500.

Wherefore plaintiff prays for a judgment against defendant for the sum of $500 and for its costs herein and all proper relief.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

Postmaster Ashton of Flemingsburg Remained From Office.

His many friends in this city will rejoice to learn that there is confusion in the accounts of Mr. H. C. Ashton, Postmaster at Flemingsburg.

At the instance of his bondsman Mr. Ashton surrendered the office, and Mr. A. H. Evans was placed in charge.

The bondsman at once made good the shortage.

HORRIBLE MURDER.

One Negro Shotgunning Another Eternity Yesterday!

Yesterday afternoon about 12:40 our quiet little city was thrown into an uproar. Two shots in rapid succession were the cause, while a woman was at the bottom of it all, the trio being colored.

Some three weeks ago Charles Yates Green Fields became infatuated with the wife of William Garrett Breckinridge Green.

To this Breckinridge didn't seem to take a liking, and went to Yates and told him as much, punctuating his remarks with the fact that if he didn't keep away from her there would be all kinds of trouble.

Yates kept on going with the woman, and finally Breckinridge and his wife, according to his own say, parted company.

Yesterday morning Yates and Breckinridge met, exchanged a few uncomplimentary remarks, during the course of which Yates took occasion to threaten Breckinridge with personal violence.

Breckinridge left, soon procured a double-barrel shotgun, started out on the hunt of Yates, whom he found on the Fleming pike opposite John Hayes's grocery, and immediately proceeded to business.

Yates, seeing him coming with the gun, started to run, when Breckinridge fired at him, the shot flying around and striking the houses that come upon our friends in inland districts in times of excessive drought.

The common stock of the Maysville and Mt. Sterling Turnpike Company amounts to $206,800, consisting of 2,060 shares of $100 each, all paid up. The value of the stock is given at $40 per share. The surplus fund is $6,800 33, and there are no debts. The gross income for the past year was $19,399 36, and net $10,355 40. Amount and value of tangible property, $4,400, consisting of 11 tollhouses—3 in Mason, 4 in Fleming, 3 in Bath and 3 in Montgomery counties. There are 12 miles of pike in Mason, 17 in Fleming, 18 in Bath and 7½ in Montgomery—30 miles in all.

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH.

Despite Socialistic Clamer the Rest of Evil is Well Disposed.

The critics of existing social and industrial conditions are constantly asserting that the tendency is to concurvate the increase of wealth in the hands of the few at the expense of the many. If this were true, it would certainly justify the condemnation of our system of prosperity; but it is not true, as the statistics clearly prove, and its persistent repetition is therefore inexcusable. The rich are not growing richer and the poor poorer, as these dealers of gloomy tidings are fond of proclaiming. It is a fact of demonstrated truth that the increase of wealth of the country is distributed with comparative evenness when proper allowances are made for differences of personal ability. In the natural order of things some men are sure to excel others in money making as in other forms of endeavor. It would be so, says The St. Louis Globe Democrat, under any plan or theory of the general division of profits. There cannot be such a thing as absolute uniformity in that relation; and if a situation of that kind should be established by arbitrary legislation it would soon be changed by the operation of irresistible forces. The exceptionally rich men constitute only a small portion of the total population, and their combined fortunes only a relative portion of the total wealth. They lose their importance the more that they are viewed in the light of nation-wide factors, the purpose of determining where wealth accumulates in the country at large.

It is shown by the report of the Controller of the Currency that the deposits in the National banks amount to $1,047,017,199, and that the number of depositors is 1,999,910. The deposits in the savings banks of the country amount to $1,747,991,280, and the depositors number 4,777,987. Then there are building associations with assets valued at $38,562,000, and shareholders numbering 1,745,735. Taking all these together, and calculating that each individual depositor or shareholder represents a family of five persons, we have a total of $8,963,830,409, belonging to 8,432,752 citizens, who stand for at least two-thirds of all the people of the United States; and the figures would be considerably larger if the deposits in the foreign banks were included. It is worth noting furthermore that there are 341,743 farms and 2,928,671 homes in the country owned by the same number of individuals. This surely does not warrant the claim that the capitalists and monopolists are absorbing all of the profits of society, and that wealth is annually gravitating from the many to the few. On the contrary, it plainly signifies that the distribution of wealth is general, that all classes share in the division of profit, and the prevailing tendency is toward an improvement of the average condition of individuals engaged in different pursuits.

This important truth might be still further elaborated and illustrated. There are other statistics as to wages, property and products that tell the same story, and furnish a similar refutation of the familiar proposition that the masses are mere tools of wipers and water-drivers for a favored class of men whose wealth goes on increasing beyond the dreams of avarice and to the serious detriment and grave peril of the Republic. As a matter of fact, these much-condemned capitalists have been growing poorer for several years past on account of the great shrinkage of values and decrease of dividends. Their money is largely invested in public enterprises, which suffer the most in times of depression. It is within bounds to say that they have lost at least $3,000,000,000 in the last two years in railroads alone, not to speak of various other possessions. They have no chance to add to their wealth except that of using it in ways which provide employment for others and promote the prosperity of the country, and the losses are numerous and very deeply felt now throughout the land. It is a clear case of the law of averages signifying them as public enemies, and to change that they are the "money power," which exercises an autocratic and oppressive sway over commerce and industry. The true supremacy in that respect is with the majority of the people, among whom the preponderance of wealth is distributed; but the stockholders do not care to continue a losing venture. The Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, which owns a half interest in the Fairground property, will likely be the purchaser of the Fair Association interest.

A STUDY OF INCOMES.

Wealth in Many Evenly Distributed in This Country Than in Great Britain.

The following figures, taken from the last English census, reveal some interesting facts concerning the economical situation of Great Britain:

About 350,000 persons in Great Britain receive an annual income of $1,000, and 2,000,000 have an income of $500. Thus we find that the family only Englishman out of every five is capable of supporting a family. It is to be borne in mind that $300 a year amounts to only $1.37 a day, which is not very much for a family of four persons. On the other hand, there are in the United Kingdom 129,000 families having an annual income of about $30,000, and 5,000 families with an income of more than $25,000.

In the United States, according to the statistics compiled by T. G. Shearman, we have 400,000 families (or about 2,000,000 people) whose annual income amounts to $2,000, and more than 10,000 families having an income of more than $25,000.

Taking into account the difference in population between the United States and Great Britain, it still will be evident that not only can America boast of a greater number of rich people than the United Kingdom, but that wealth is more equally distributed and less centralized in the United States.
